navitend

CASE STUDY

ENGINEERING & PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

Set up multiple sites to run from a data center

Employee Staffing Company

The challenge

A client in the temporary staffing industry was faced with a growth challenge. As the number of their regional offices increased there was increasing dependency upon their primary servers running in their corporate headquarters. From time to time, the internet circuit at this primary location would go out and leave their entire workforce unable to access their primary information systems.

navitend's role navitend crafted a solution and built out the required hardware and software components in a highly reliable regional data center. With this solution, an outage of the internet connectivity at any single office does not negatively impact the balance of the company's operations. They have also moved to a cloud-hosted email solution, enabling them additional uptime as well as multi-device email support – a big improvement over their legacy email solution.

The result

This company can add new offices with confidence in their reliable network architecture. Even in the most extreme circumstances such as hurricanes and localized outages, their infrastructure continues to operate without interruption.

Talk to a person, not a ticket

Tell us what's going on. We'll listen, ask good questions, and give you informed and experienced guidance.

Book a Call

Call 877.448.0070

www.navitend.com